

Wesleyan Heritage Library

Preface: By Sulu D. Kelley of Wesleyan Heritage Publishing, producer of the “Wesleyan Heritage Library” CD

I didn't always like history, but I have learned to love it; not necessarily the history made of blood, battles and the treachery of man against man, but instead the history of my Holiness forebears, which is the history of the heart's struggle to know more of Him against all odds.

The cost of this love of ancient reading has been books filled with must and mold that aggravate existing eye problems and allergies. The fruit has been an abundance of tears, joy, and faith. I keep the cost that I might share with you, dear reader, the glorious fruit that has been hard-won from the dark attics and cobwebs of Wesleyana, where the memory of Wesley himself lives on.
